THE SCHOOL OF THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, BOSTON PRESENTS
"SENIOR PROJECTS 2008"

WHAT

The School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston (SMFA) presents "Senior Projects 2008" on view May 12–18, 2008. The exhibition features the work of twenty-one graduating students who volunteered to be part of the SMFA's second installment of the Senior Projects program. Led by faculty members Fritz Buehner and Ron Rizzi, the program builds on the School's unique studio curriculum and offers final-semester students independent studio time to focus on their work as well as the opportunity to participate a group exhibition at the end of the year.

Featuring a variety of media including installation, film, video, animation, painting, photography, drawing, sculpture, sound, and more, "Senior Projects 2008" represents the diversity of the SMFA's interdisciplinary curriculum and illustrates the development of each student's art practice.
